Congratulations Goes Out to our Communications and Marketing Team

Palm Coast earns awards for its video work. Kudos to the City's Communications and Marketing division – their work was recognized recently by The International Academy of Visual Arts, and received three 2013 Communicator Awards in the following categories:

2013 Silver Award of Distinction: - Bringing It In-House (category: Governmental Relations)

2013 Silver Award of Distinction: - The QR Code Project (category: Outdoor/Environmental)

2013 Silver Award of Distinction: - Prosperity At Work: Sports (category: Governmental Relations)

2013 People's Telly Award: - Trek It Out – The QR Code Project (category: Outdoor/Environmental, Non-Traditional)

Additional honors were received from the Silver Telly Council for the City's "Trek It Out – The QR Code Project" video. It received top honors (Silver) in the 2013 People's Telly Awards. Winning a People's Telly Award is a first for the city. A People's Telly entry is judged by the online community as a hosted video via the Silver Telly Council's YouTube channel. Those videos with the highest number of "likes" would either win Silver (Excellence) or Bronze (Distinction) based on clicks...and ours won Silver...another first. Congratulations to all who made these happen!

Animals ready for homes

134 cats

76 dogs

2 guinea pigs

Every year 4 million dogs are bred in puppy mills. Most people don't have any idea that the puppies they are buying were bred in squalid conditions where the dogs live horrific lives with insufficient food and water, little or no veterinary care, and trapped in too-small cages for the entirety of their lives. Dogs are bred over and over again to obtain the maximum numbers of puppies to sell. If you love animals, we encourage you to become familiar with the cruelty inflicted on helpless pets in puppy mills. It's as simple as doing an internet search on puppy mills. The HSUS, ASPCA, Best Friends Animal Society and other prominent animal welfare groups have extensive information on puppy mills to educate the public.

Most puppy mill dogs are sold in pet stores or through the internet. Unless you insist on seeing the kennels in which the dogs are bred, you can be misled by glowing descriptions and contrived photos. So how do you get that specific-breed puppy that you want? The answers are pretty easy.

Buy only from a reputable breeder where you can visit the facility and check it out. How are the animals housed? Do they appear to have enough food and clean water? Are they allowed to run outside and play like normal animals? Look for health issues like watery eyes, coughing, matted coats, bad breath, untrimmed nails, or lethargy. Check to see if the females are bred more than once a year? Ask for a reference from their veterinarian and talk to the vet yourself. Be alert to any attempts to "guide" you in your visit because it could be that there are things the breeder does not want you to see.

But, we encourage you to always consider adoption first. Between 25 and 30 percent of the animals in shelters are pure-breed dogs and cats. If you can't find what you are looking for in your shelter, check out the many rescue groups around. Many take all breeds but most specialize in particular breeds of animals. When you adopt, you save an animal's life.

If we just stop buying from pet stores and over the internet, the puppy mill owners' profits will dry up and we will stop this terrible industry in its tracks.

Special Announcements

Don't forget our First Annual Poker Run on June 8! You can get more information and register online or at the Shelter. It's going to be a fun day and you don't want to miss it.

Our Gracie's Fund is getting low again and we'd so appreciate your contributing to it. Gracie's Fund is used to pay for out of the ordinary medical expenses for animals that come into the Shelter. We treat heartworm, fix broken bones, and perform surgeries that we otherwise could not afford to do. A contribution to Gracie's Fund saves lives!

Pet of the Week

ROCKY

Rocky is an energetic 1.5 year old, neutered male, Staffordshire Terrier mix. He is full of life and wants to get as much out of it as he can! He loves to go for long walks and play ball in the play yard. He is very strong and very exuberant! Rocky is looking for a home with active people who are able to play with such a big, happy boy. He is a volunteer favorite and has taken day trips home with them. The volunteers say that even though he is energetic he's very smart and learns quickly. With just a little bit more work and some patience—he is just a puppy still—he will become a well behaved house companion. Do you have room in your house and your heart for Rocky?

Section of St. Joe Walkway in Palm Coast reopens

Palm Coast, Fla. – The nearly one-mile section of the popular St. Joe Walkway trail that had been temporarily closed for construction of a new sanitary sewer line has been reopened, the City of Palm Coast announces.

Minor cleanup, seeding and sodding is still under way, so crews will continue working in the area over the next few days. But that won't affect use of the trail.

"We appreciate residents' patience as we completed this important sewer system upgrade," said Mary Kronenberg, the Utility Division's project coordinator. "We know local walkers, runners and bicyclists will be happy to be back out on the trail!"

For more information, contact Mary Kronenberg at (386) 986-2306.
