New Life Saving Tools Added to the Fire Department:

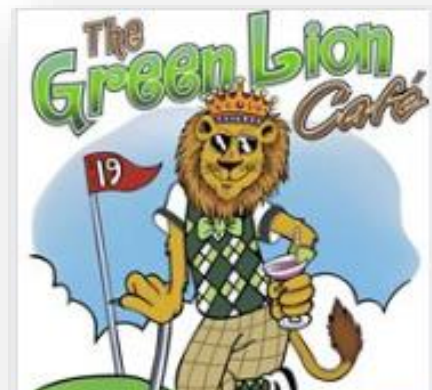

This week, the Fire Department trained on new battery-powered extrication tools purchased with guidance from the City's Equipment Team. These new tools, commonly known as the "Jaws of Life", are designed for rapid intervention in vehicle rescue and in extracting trapped victims. Used in place of traditional tools, the cordless option for these tools creates a more efficient environment for patient care and communications during a rescue. For more information, see the attached Fire Department Update and news release.

Communications & Marketing

We are planning for the New Year! This week, the Brand Plus Team led by Digital Communications Coordinator Jason Giraulo, explored ideas for a cell phone app to promote parks, trails and special events, and brainstormed ways to promote “An Evening with Moose Peterson,” which will be an event on Feb. 10 that supports the City’s Rooted in Nature brand. A subteam finalized photo selections to be hung at the Palm Coast Community Center as part of its renovation and expansion. Also as part of Rooted in Nature, a new blog post was added, titled “A Feather in our Cap.” Read it here:

<https://spark.adobe.com/page/YtcklkoRg7PEe/>.

Speaking of feathers, Jason is also the event coordinator for the Birds of a Feather Fest, and the team is working on plans for PeaCee’s Big Backyard. Residents will learn how to create a bird- and butterfly-friendly backyard, see amazing wild birds from the Audubon Center for Birds of Prey, and have fun learning about nature and birding at this year’s PeaCee’s Big Backyard. The event is set for Feb. 10 as part of the three-day Birds of a Feather Fest Feb. 9-11.

Palm Coast Television videotaped and aired live the Palm Coast City Council meeting this week. A new video about the annual Intracoastal Waterway Cleanup debuted at the meeting as part of a presentation on this year’s cleanup. Watch the video here: <https://youtu.be/ZiKqxgruCYQ>. Video Production Coordinator Tom Hanson also worked with Palm Coast Fire PIO Patrick Juliano on a fire-prevention video explaining to residents what the green wreaths on our fire stations represent. Watch here: https://youtu.be/wQ\_bKxiKd7I.

News releases sent by Communications & Marketing Manager Cindi Lane included Christmas Tree Recycling and free paper-shredding (Jan. 6 event), Palm Coast Fire Dept. Equipment Team adds new extrication tools, Green Lion Café at Palm Harbor Golf adds dinner to menu, the January calendar of events and City employees collect food for Grace Community Food Pantry. The team participated in a webinar on social media trends, designed letterhead for Customer Service and Palm Harbor Golf Club, and posted the latest Discover Palm Coast Radio Show, about the Family Life Center, to our podcast. ## DEPARTMENT ACTIVITIES

Palm Coast Volunteer Firefighter Interns are growing! Three new Volunteer Firefighter Interns started this month.

We have a constant flow of Flagler Palm Coast High School Fire Academy students doing ride alongs with our crews. Many students in the Fire Academy at Flagler Palm Coast High School schedule their ride alongs after school and/or on the weekends.

The Equipment Team has completed its first major project – to introduce new, battery-operated extrication equipment for use during motor vehicle accidents. Training has been conducted on how to properly and safely use these tools. A second set of battery-operated tools have been ordered and will be installed in another Palm Coast fire engine in the coming months.

Three battery-powered extrication tools from Holmatro have been installed on Palm Coast Engine #21. The tools are spreaders used to separate metal, commonly known as the “Jaws of Life;” cutters that are used to cut door hinges and through the post of a vehicle; and a combination tool that performs both functions. A second set of battery-powered tools have been ordered and will be installed in another Palm Coast fire engine in the coming months.

Parks & Recreation – Alex Boyer, Director

Executive Summary: Parks & Recreation staff were temporarily displaced from the interim office at the Frieda Zamba Swimming Pool while some much needed roof repairs were being made. Youth programs staff is busy working on Jack Frostivities camp plans. The camp will be held at the Frieda Zamba Swimming Pool classroom on Dec. 27-29 and Jan. 2-5. Staff finalized plans for the artwork in the Community Center, making sure to plan for the function of each room. We are already thinking ahead to the summer and planning a social media campaign for summer hiring. The marketing supervisor and the athletics supervisor were able to join the Communications Department in a 2018 Social Media Trends webinar on Tuesday, Dec. 19. As our fall programs are coming to an end, staff is actively preparing for a very busy year ahead with a full schedule of winter/spring programs, the USTA Futures Tournament, and the Community Center opening. We are also excited that our new youth programs supervisor will be starting in early January and look forward to seeing what changes and improvements are ahead.

Recycle your Christmas tree and get free paper shredding service: Jan. 6 event

Palm Coast – Mark your calendars now for the Palm Coast holiday tradition that preserves the environment and beautifies our city – the annual Christmas Tree Recycling Event on Saturday, Jan. 6.

Recycle your Christmas tree and receive a free three-gallon evergreen tree in exchange (while supplies last) at the City's 11th annual Christmas Tree Recycling Event. The event will be 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., at the Palm Coast Fuel Depot, 22 Utility Drive.

DVD and CD players, keyboards, old wires, cell phones and Christmas tree lights will also be accepted for recycling. No TVs, microwaves, or computer monitors, please.

This year there will also be a free paper-shredding service offered, so bring your old documents for professional shredding. Items that can be accepted include: staples, paper clips, spiral notebooks, expired credit cards, check books, folders with small prongs with small amounts of metal/plastic. Unacceptable items include: batteries, three-ring binders, binder clips, hard drives, X-rays and large amounts of metal/plastic. Shredded materials will be recycled, with the ink and color removed to produce new paper towels, tissues, etc.

All trees donated for recycling will be ground and used as mulch to beautify the parks and trails across Palm Coast. Residents should remove all decorations, lights, tinsel and ornaments from trees prior to donation.

"It helps the environment and saves the City and our residents money by us not having to purchase as much mulch for projects," said Palm Coast Urban Forester Carol Mini. "There are residents who come out year after year for their free tree to plant in their yard."

For more information, contact Carol Mini at cjimini@palmcoastgov.com.

Palm Coast Fire Department Equipment Team selects new cordless extrication tools

Palm Coast – In keeping with the City of Palm Coast's overall management strategy, the Palm Coast Fire Department has 14 employee teams that take the lead in everyday operational planning.

One of the newest teams within the department, the Equipment Team, has completed its first major project – to introduce new, battery-operated extrication equipment for use during motor vehicle accidents. These tools are designed for rapid intervention in vehicle rescue and the extrication of trapped victims.

"We instituted the team concept to oversee many area of operations," said Deputy Chief Jerry Forte. "Since 2012 we have had teams oversee apparatus design, public education and Insurance Service Office (ISO) grading."

"These teams and their leaders control the direction and flow of the project from concept to introduction in the field to post-implementation review," Forte said. "It is an innovative approach that gives the employees planning opportunities, introduces them to budget preparation and funding, and allows them to play an active role in the future of the department. It also benefits the City and the Fire Department because we get more input and a variety of perspectives from more employees, who are trained professionals and directly affected by these decisions."

The new Equipment Team was created by the Deputy Fire Chief last year to assess whether current equipment was still relevant to today's operations and to recommend improvements for the future. The team joined with another Fire Department team, the Apparatus Team, to evaluate the current tools' effectiveness and the ergonomics of deployment from fire trucks at emergency scenes and to try new tools now available on the market. The team did in-depth research, including many hours of hands-on practice with options newer to the market.

"Our team wanted to try something new," said Firefighter Adam Bachman, leader for the project. "After meeting with several manufacturers and testing their equipment, we selected the Holmatro extrication tools from their Greenline brand. We are being progressive by choosing battery-powered, cordless tools that are safer for rescuers to use and quicker for helping victims.”

“Usually at the scene of a vehicle extrication, the noise is loud due to the extrication equipment’s gas-powered portable hydraulic generator, and we have limited mobility because of the connection to the generator,” explained Lt. Brian Mugford, Equipment Team leader. “The new, quieter tools make communication at an emergency scene more efficient and the cordless aspect gives us more mobility. That creates a more efficient environment for patient care and communications.”

Three battery-powered extrication tools from Holmatro have been installed on one of Palm Coast Fire Department’s engines. The tools are spreaders used to separate metal, commonly known as the “Jaws of Life;” cutters that are used to cut door hinges and through the post of a vehicle; and a combination tool that performs both functions. A second set of battery-powered tools have been ordered and will be installed in another Palm Coast fire engine the coming months.

The Fire Department’s team model of management has been growing over the past few years and is proving successful across-the-board, said Deputy Chief Forte. The approach was fashioned after the City of Palm Coast’s overall team concept, which uses employee teams – usually with employee representatives from different departments – to tackle big projects and find solutions to citywide challenges. It was first implemented by Palm Coast City Manager Jim Landon with the introduction of the LITE Team (Leadership Intern Training Experience) in 2011 and has been successful at developing up-and-coming leaders within Palm Coast city government.

Residents who would like to see the new extrication tools firsthand are invited to visit Fire Station 21 at 9 Corporate Drive (behind Kohl’s), Palm Coast.

The Green Lion Café at Palm Harbor Golf Club now open for dinner, too

Palm Coast – What's for dinner? Check out the tasty new supper items now being prepared at The Green Lion Café, the new restaurant at the City of Palm Coast's municipal Palm Harbor Golf Club, 100 Cooper Lane.

With breakfast and lunch continuously gaining praise and popularity, the restaurant has extended hours through dinner. Hours are now 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily at The Green Lion Café, which opened in November at Palm Harbor.

The Green Lion is a branch of the popular Golden Lion Restaurant in Flagler Beach, but with a delightfully different menu. Daily fresh-caught fish and on-site baked bread and desserts have become diner's favorites. The Café highlights specialties such as seafood pot pies, lobster claws, short ribs served over cheese grits and an amazing sticky toffee pudding. It accentuates standard fare like colossal shrimp, grilled steak, giant sandwiches and vegan/gluten free meals. Patrons can indulge in a charcuterie board of cheeses, meats, nuts and fruits for group sharing or a gourmet breakfast blend of bacon, eggs and grilled veggies offered for dinner.

"Everyone in Palm Coast will love our cuisine-driven dining and the serene atmosphere we have here overlooking the golf course," said Green Lion Head Chef Ramses Delao.

"Customer experience here is unlike anywhere else in this area," added General Manager Dan Keglo.

The restaurant is also a perfect spot for special gatherings like showers, weddings, and business and organization meetings. Of course, golf outings continue to be popular at all times of the day. But The Green Lion Café is not just for golfers – it's for anyone who loves to eat!

For reservation information, please call 386-986-GOLF (4653).

Dec. 19, 2017

City employees collect 1,426 pounds of non-perishables for food pantry

Palm Coast – City of Palm Coast employees have gotten into the holiday spirit through a variety of friendly competitions such as office-decorating, ugly sweaters and cookie-baking contests.

Employees also put their competitiveness to good purpose – by collecting non-perishable food items for neighbors in need. The food drive was organized by the City's BAM (Boosting All Morale) Team, and the canned, boxed and bagged foods collected were weighed by department.

This week, 1,426 pounds of food were donated to the Grace Community Food Pantry! The Community Development Department, which includes the Building, Planning, Construction Management & Engineering, and Code Enforcement divisions, led the way with the donation of 307 pounds of food.

One in six adults in Florida – 2.5 million people – are hungry or food-insecure, and the Grace Community Food Pantry helps fill that gap for Flagler County residents who demonstrate financial need through a simple application. The food pantry is located at 245 Education Way (off U.S. 1) in Bunnell.

Pet of the Week

GRACE

Grace is a beautiful 2 year old boxer mix. She is up to date on all her vaccinations and already spayed. She is a loveable dog that craves attention. She is a little shy at first but warms up very fast. She was very nervous when she first got here. She was brought in because her family was moving and couldn't take her. She was then adopted but brought back because she didn't get along with the other dog in the home. She currently goes into playgroup with no problem. She seems to be more comfortable with dogs her size. She would love a second chance to prove that she has what it takes to be a loving member of a family. Come and meet this sweet girl today!
